Before I started year 7 I was worried about what it would be like at a new school but after a while it got better and I was used to going there. I was very nervous about getting lost and how hard the lessons would be but all the teaches helped and after a week you know your way around the school. I thought that the work we had was going to be too hard but the teacher that was teaching me that lesson helped to make sure everyone understood what to do. Even though you might not be in lesson with your friends who started the school too you will make lots of new friends in your class and build new friendships with people from other schools. When I started I thought science was going to be hard but with the teachers help I grew to love it and now look forward to science every week. After a few weeks at St Augustine's I felt like I had been there for ages. There are so many different clubs you can do after school like football, netball, badminton, rugby, gymnastics, athletics, drama and more. Some teachers also do a homework club to help you get your homework done and if you don't have internet you can go and use a computer.
